Punkt 4: Changes to project deadlines for groups with a student with disabilities

Beslutning

The Head of Studies informed the Study Board of a change in procedure in relation to group exams where one of the students has a disability. Previously, in the case of project examinations, RUC automatically gave the whole group two extra weeks. The procedure has been reviewed and in the future a specific assessment will be the basis for the allocation of extra time rather than an automatic allocation as was previously the case.

Punkt 5: Study environment tutor calendar for the upcoming semester

Beslutning

The study board was informed about the coming semester's study environment activities at ISE, including activities targeting SAMBACH

Punkt 6: The University leadership's decision about future MA programmes

Beslutning

The Study Board reviewed the attached material to gain a general overview of the future direction of the Master's programs at Roskilde University. The following points were discussed:

- Concerns were expressed about the future of existing collaborations between different teaching groups that have to be integrated in the new MA landscape. It is important to focus on minimising the risk of internal conflict and turf wars in the collaborations between departments and between teaching groups going forward.
- An adjustment of the bachelor program is expected in the spring, which raises questions about the consequences for the subject modules being offered. It was discussed whether a larger reform is necessary, including the possibility of either continuing the broad entry or creating multiple BA programmes.
- Students want clarity about their potential influence on the reform process and an understanding of what the future educational structure will look like - whether there will continue to be a broad entrance or whether more specialised 'silo' programmes will be established.
